

The Oslo gay bar shooting

Written by someone tired of staged terror events and wishing for them to end

On the night of the 25th of June 2022 at around 1am there was a shooting at the gay bar called London Pub, another pub called Per på Hjørnet and a takeaway restaurant that were all located in Rosenkrantz' street in Oslo, Norway. Oslo Pride was scheduled to occur the following day on Saturday the 25th of June, but was cancelled because of this shooting. According to Wikipedia, 2 people were killed and at least 21 people were wounded. The perpetrator, an Iranian immigrant named Zaniar Matapour, was quickly handled by locals and captured by the police. Matapour is now under investigation by the police for having committed an act of Islamic extremist terrorism motivated by anti-LGBT sentiments.

We already know from Miles mentioning this earlier that many persons who were present at these bars on the night of the shooting were also present at the Utøya island in 2011 where Anders Behring Breivik was shooting at participants of the Labor Party youth camp. In addition to Eskil Pederen who was leader of the Labor Party youth organization at the time of the Breivik event, at least two other Utøya survivors have described in newspaper articles how they fled from shots again during the Oslo gay bar shooting; see reports by Eivind Rindal and Stian Løken. What are the odds? We do perhaps not need to go beyond this to show this gay bar shooting was also staged.

I was apprehensive about writing a paper on this event, both because I didn't think there was enough material for a paper but also because I am pretty bored by these mass-produced fake events. However, a little while ago, it came out in mainstream news that one of the surviving victims who had been shot at during this gay bar shooting admitted she lied and had made the whole thing up. What? They were now going to run stories where they actually admitted to having lied? I was baffled. To the left you can see a front page of one of the largest mainstream newspapers in Norway, Aftenposten, portray Nikita Abbas and her original story of having been shot at. The text reads “She was hit by one of the bullets. Her friend used his own body as a shield to save Nikita Amber Abbas (21) from the shower of bullets at the London Pub Friday night. The bullet went through them both.”

So, this story was total fabrication as has been admitted in mainstream news. It's also unbelievable that the bullet should go through her friend and then go through her as it says on this front page. One may wonder if the scriptwriters set her up to fail deliberately to blackwash the gay Muslim organization she heads or Muslims in general. From the mainstream newspaper article reporting that she lied, it looks as if they attempt to blackwash Muslims. They must be pretty certain no one is going to read this the way I am reading it, which is as evidence of the entire event being fraudulent. In any case, I thought that this was a sign I ought to sit down and write about this event since it should at least be known that one of the victims was admittedly fake. Not many newspapers carried this story that she lied, and if one attempts to visit the pages that detailed her original story, one does not get a retraction or fraud notice, only an error. However, we do find the original article on the internet way back machine here. In this archived article, we can see Abbas, who is disabled and uses a wheelchair, detail how she and her friend were shot and how she didn't notice she had been shot at, which according to herself was close to the heart. In that article we also learn that the emergency room called her up to check if she had been shot because they could not find the bullet within her friend. None of this makes much sense to me. Someone not noticing they are shot close to the heart and then having the ER call them up to suggest this had happened based on...what? The bullet that wasn't found within her friend could have been anywhere. It's also pretty insane that she wasn't checked by paramedics when they came to collect her friend who she was with, which I assume would be standard procedure.

So far, we know that several persons who were present at the Breivik event were also at this gay bar shooting, and we know one of the victims lied about being shot at. I guess we could stop here, but I am now going to do a few more rounds of this event to see if there is anything else worth mentioning.

Let's look at some of the other gunshot victims. In this article, we can see another victim of the shooting tell a story and show pictures of being shot in the back of his head with the bullet going in on the right side and coming out on the left side, seemingly without causing too much damage in between. Is this real? I don't know, but it seems strange the bullet didn't get lodged inside his head and that it looks so clean without any visible swelling or oedema.

Here is another example of a victim who was shot in the head but who both survived and seem to be doing pretty well afterwards. The wounds are again very clean and there is no swelling in or around them. According to the American Association of Neurological Surgeons, gunshot wounds to the head are lethal 90% of the time, and if they are not lethal, 50% of patients will suffer from seizures and need anti-epileptic medication. Here we have two head gunshot victims from the Oslo gay bar shooting who both survived and seem in relatively good shape. What are the odds of this? Zero, since we have already established this was fake. We may assume that guy already had a scar there, since it doesn't look new.

I found a video online taken at the time of the shootings where we can see the perpetrator Zaniar Matapour running in a yellow T-shirt and being captured by civilians. I guess it was either a yellow T-shirt or one of those yellow reflective vests, so to make sure he would not be run down by a car and be easy to capture by civilians and police. Earlier the same day, Matapour had been observed wearing a blue T-shirt and had for unknown reasons changed to a yellow T-shirt before the shooting. We can only speculate, I guess, and if this event, as so many other events, was staged, the color yellow would help identify the perpetrator for people who don't know him. Say for instance that people have been instructed to run after the perpetrator, then they would need to quickly identify him. Note also that the story is that civilians are running after and capturing a man on a shooting rampage holding a loaded weapon he has just fired against people. I guess we are to think of civilians as very courageous and not as an indication of it not being real.

To the left is a picture of Zaniar Matapour on the night of the shooting dressed in a yellow shirt and a blue cap. So, this is how you dress if you are planning on committing criminal activity. He only lacks a sign saying, "I am the terrorist".

Also note that in the video linked above of the perpetrator being captured by civilians, that there is a police car parked behind another car not far from where the perpetrator is captured by civilians. We can recognize that this is a police car due the blue lights that are being lit on it. This police car enters the street and drives a small distance in the opposite direction of the perpetrator being handled by civilians before it parks further down the street and then two persons appear from within it. According to the official timeline of the event, civilians held down the perpetrator for 4 minutes and 31 seconds before the police took hold of him. This has all been detailed by mainstream news where civilians on the scene are reported to have complained about seeing the police (75 meters down the street) but not being assisted by them. In the video, we can also clearly hear shots being fired, and we can see people run after the man in yellow and then tackle him so that he falls into the ground. I assume the police in the car further down the street could also hear and see this, and if shots being fired isn't something that gets police off their feet, I don't know what will. Even though there were police very close to the shooting who were able to give precise information about the location, backup police forces were sent to the wrong address. So, someone must have given the police the wrong directions about where this shooting took place, even though they had officers in the street where the attack took place. Right. What's next? All police cars were broken and police back-up forces came riding in on bicycles or horses? Or tricycles? Or gummiboats?

One witness passing by the perpetrator Zaniar Matapour as he was drawing up his weapon to start shooting, said that he had screamed «allahu akbar». I am mentioning this because the woman in the article who is described as the friend of this witness is named Kristin H. Andresen. The witness, a guy named Tormod Bakke Johnsen, is himself gay as we all know since he has been part of a reality TV series where he has tried to find a mate. No crime in being gay and Bakke Johnson is not nearly as interesting as his friend, Kristin H. Andersen, who he at 01.47 am on the night of the shooting sends a text message to report on the shooting. Kristin H. Andresen had left the party Bakke Johnson was part of earlier that night and appears to be a close friend (or relative?) as she has her arm tucked around Bakke Johnsen's neck in a photo in the article. Who is Kristin H. Andresen? She is married to Johan H. Andresen jr. who is one of Norway's richest men (no. 5 on a list of Norway's top 400 richest persons). The Andresen family has historically been Tobacco industrialists but have today invested its wealth through a holding company called Ferd which has a net worth of 24 billion NOK (in 2010). Based on Miles' previous work, I know better than to think this a coincidence.

So, who is this Zaniar Matapour? According to Wikipedia, he came to Norway from Iran as a refugee in 1993. His family fled from Iran at the time of the revolution in 1979 and then fled to Pakistan where they allegedly sometimes had to live on the streets before they came to Norway. No way that is true: just the usual sob story and misdirection. We know because Matapour is also connected, like everyone else in this staged saga. His sister dated and lived together for many years with a well-known Norwegian comedian named Kristian Valen. This comedian has recently claimed that he was violently assaulted by Zaniar Matapour several years back for reasons unknown. Even though the police had evidence about Matapour being Kristian Valen's attacker, they didn't charge Matapour and just filed the case away.

At some point Matapour changed his name to Samuel Steffa, though we don't know why. According to Wikipedia, Matapour has a criminal record of drug possession and violent assault. The Police Security Service had also been in contact with him several times prior to the Oslo gay bar shooting due to concerns about him being radicalized. As I described above, I don't believe Matapour has been radicalized, though I will believe that the Norwegian intelligence services have been in contact with him as a paid agent. Since 2013, Matapour has been on disability benefits, probably because he has been diagnosed with paranoid schizophrenia. I guess we are to believe that his name change was a result of schizophrenia. Matapour has also been the neighbor and acquaintance of a guy named Arfan Bhatti, who is another Norwegian Islamic radical. Bhatti has now also been charged with having contributed to the Oslo 2022 shooting, though, except for posting burning rainbow flags on his facebook profile, it is not clear in what way he contributed. The Norwegian Islamist organization that Bhatti has been involved with, Profetens Ummah, has been openly supportive of the Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant and Islamic terrorism in general. I guess Profetens Ummah is the Norwegian branch of the CIA-created Al-Qaeda/ISIS franchise. I guess this Arfan Bhatti guy and the organization Profetens Umma is worth paper on its own, but I am not going there today. The only thing I will mention is that according to Arfan Bhatti's Wiki page, he used to be a member of a gang of youngsters calling themselves "Young Guns". I guess they got the idea from the movie called Young Guns, though we don't know which one get to play Charlie Sheen and which one plays Emilio Estevez. The Young Guns gang got into conflicts with other Oslo "underworld" gangs called The Killers, B-gjengen (the Beagle Boys), the Philippine Outsiders and the Rebels. I don't know anything about underworld gangs in Oslo or any other place, but isn't it a little strange that they define themselves with these cartoon-like names? Why even have a name if you're engaging in underworld activities?

Another strange thing about Arfan Bhatti is that he has previously been married to a woman who has recently been very vocal against the draconian covid measures. At the time when she was married to Bhatti, she was promoting holy war against occupiers of Muslim land. While her husband was posing with weapons, she had a Kalashnikov tattooed on her arm and posted pictures on facebook of female jihadists. From wife of jihadist to voice of reason and sense. Make of this what you will, but in this way, opposition to covid measures could be associated with Islamic radicalism. That would be blackwashing 101, wouldn't it?

The Islamic radical Arfan Bhatti has also dated Karianne Solbrække, above, who is a Norwegian crime news journalist. Do we think an Islamic radical will be dating a Norwegian news journalist or vice versa? This news journalist has covered some of the major crime scandals in Norway, including the Orderud case that Miles covered briefly in his paper on the Breivik event. So, proof positive Bhatti, and therefore Matapour, are agents. It pretty much goes without saying that real Iranian terrorists don't date pretty blonde State news reporters.

At the Wiki page of the Oslo shooting, we can also read that:

A journalist from the Norwegian public broadcaster NRK who was present stated he witnessed a man arrive with a bag, then pick up a weapon and start shooting. The journalist thought it was an air gun at first, until glass shattered at the bar next door.<sup>[10]</sup>

According to the reference, this journalist who was a witness to the shooting in Oslo is named Olav Rønneberg. He is NRK's (Norwegian equivalent of the BBC) resident crime journalist. Fascinating to find two crime news journalists linked to the Oslo shooting, not because they cover it, but as a witness and an ex-girlfriend of a person charged with being complicit in the crime. I can't prove that Olav Rønneberg is from one particular Rønneberg family but will mention that there is a famous Norwegian Rønneberg family that has historically been a very wealthy merchant and shipping family. One noteworthy Rønneberg family member was army officer Joachim Holmboe Rønneberg, who became famous for taking part in the WW2 Norwegian heavy water sabotage. His younger brother, Erling Rønneberg, was an agent for the Secret Intelligence Service during WW2 and was the leader of the heavy water sabotage operation. Wealthy families intermarry with other wealthy and influential families and the name Holmboe above represents another such family, which Miles also mentioned in his papers on the Breivik massacre. We don't have intelius or instantcheckmate in Norway, and so it is not so easy to find out who people are related to. We are left to speculate that this witness of the Oslo shooting and NRK crime news journalist could be related to these famous Rønnebergs. We may note that this crime journalist, Olav Rønneberg, has also been covering the Orderud case.

Miles: the Ronnebergs are Jewish, of course, related to Sandbergs, Brinchmanns, Rasmussens, Cochs (Kochs/Kocks/Cox) and Schous.

The lead defense attorney of Zaniar Matapour is named John Christian Elden. I don't know much about him except for that is a well-known lawyer who must have been involved with a lot of high-profile cases as he is frequently in the news. Looking him up on Wikipedia, I learn that he is a member of the conservative party, is a freemason, participated in the US State department IV leadership programme in 2005, is an honorary citizen of Nebraska and that his granduncle, Oscar C. Gundersen, was a member of the Labor party and was also minister of Justice as well as Norwegian ambassador to Russia. Can't say I understand why Elden was part of a US State department leadership program. What does one do to participate in that as a Norwegian citizen? Just sign up? Elden's grand uncle O. C. Gundersen became controversial for aiding the Germans to build an airport in Norway during the WW2, though this didn't seem to deter the Labor party from assigning him to later be minister of justice, an ambassador to Russia and responsible attorney for the legal purge of people who betrayed Norway during the war. Gunderson was even put in charge of creating emergency preparedness laws to protect Norway from another attack. This really seems like the right guy for this sort of job. Elden has also worked on the infamous Orderud case. These cases never end and so Elden was hired to help with resumption of the case of Per Orderud who had been convicted of contributing to the murder of his own sister and parents.

One of the other lawyers defending Matapour is Bernt Heiberg. Conveniently, both Elden and Heiberg have been defense attorneys for Arfan Bhatti before. I don't know much else about Heiberg, except for that he is obviously a Heiberg, meaning Heiberg is a well-known surname, which Miles also mentioned briefly in one of his papers on the Breivik event. Then there is another third defense attorney for Matapour who is named Inger Silka Zadig. Don't know much about her either except for that she has also recently been working on the Orderud case. They are all Jewish. Zadig is a variant of the Hebrew Tzadik, meaning "righteous", which I'm guessing couldn't be less descriptive of Inger Zadig. Elden is more commonly spelled Eldan worldwide, and is a common Jewish name. Heiberg is also a common Jewish name, see Danish actress Johanne Heiberg, whose mother was a Hirschborn. Also see playwright Johan Heiberg, whose mother was the Baroness Gyllembourg-Ehrensward and whose stepfather was the Swedish Baron Carl Ehrensward, convicted in the \(fake\) assassination of King Gustav III.\* As we have seen, these fakes run in families.

Another thing worth mentioning may be that there was an American couple present on the scene of the crime who filmed the of the victims receiving medical assistance after the shooting. Both Miles and I have tried to find this Gary (then 65) and Ginger (then 64) Walters residing in North Carolina using various people search engines, but none of us could find them. Miles suggested this means they are not who they say they are.

Another witness that was mentioned in the article about the Walters couple linked above, is Bjørn Inge Bergestuen whose friend was shot and killed by Matapour. As far as I can understand, Bergestuen is an IT guy for the Norwegian Progress Party, which is a populist right-wing party. I don't know if Bergestuen is a member of the party, but one may guess that this is not a random IT job and that people inhabiting this position do so because they are also members of the party. The Progress Party is probably the political party that is most vocal against Islamic radicalism, but also the party that gains the most votes from Islamic terrorism being an actual problem.

I guess we could go on doing more rounds of this event as I am sure there is more to be discovered, but I think I have made a case for this event being staged. I might add something more later if I think it's worth mentioning.

*I have written about this before. Gustav was a great-grandson of George I of England, and therefore a Stuart. In another line he was a Jagiellon/Vasa, descended from Casimir IV of Poland.
