

When Sunny Gets Blue

by Miles Mathis

September 23, 2026

I was wondering what I would write about when I hit the computer this morning. Well, wonder no more. Sunny Hostin of The View dropped a paper in my lap first thing, lead story everywhere. She bragged yesterday about being the lone juror voting not guilty by insanity for Daniel Rakowitz, famous cannibal and the Butcher of Tompkins Square Park.

This backfired big-time for her, with almost everyone—even fellow liberals—being stunned by her admission. However, of course everyone is missing the trip down the rabbit hole here, since the Rakowitz case was another CIA fake.

I have told you all serial killers and mass murderers are fake, and this is just another one of them, one I hadn't hit so far. You can tell from the very first sentence of his mainstream bio:

Rakowitz was born in Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri, where his father was a criminal investigator for the U.S. Army.

Just a coincidence, right? Born on an Army base and his father was a criminal investigator. But this serial killer fake couldn't just be one in a long line of these events faked by the military.

The fourth sentence is also a big clue:

Although it is commonly reported that Rakowitz graduated from Rockport-Fulton High School in 1980, he actually attended and graduated from high school in Refugio, Texas.^[citation needed]

Why would they report that wrong for decades? Probably because they didn't want the people in Refugio to recognize him and start telling stories about how he was actually a Boy Scout, a straight-A student, and ROTC. That would conflict with the claim he was a pot-smoking hippie.

They then admit he was involved with various new-age churches in the East Village in Manhattan, though they don't tell us how this kid from Refugio ended up there. Nor do they tell you those churches, like the Temple of the True Inner Light, are CIA fronts. This "church" allegedly spun out of the Native American Church of New York, but it was founded by a guy named Alan Birnbaum. Are you laughing yet? Not Native American. Jewish. I remember a Woody Allen character named Alan Birnbaum. We are told Birnbaum thought he was the Messiah and the congregation did a host of drugs, including pot, LSD, DMT, DET, and met in a small storefront. One problem: all those drugs were illegal at the time, and the place was wellknown to authorities, so why was it allowed to remain open for decades? Now you know.

The church was raided and Birnbaum arrested for having 20,000 peyote buttons (638 lbs worth) in 1979, with a possible sentence of 15 years to life in prison, but the case appears to have never gone to court.^{[1][4][23][50]}

In 1989 Rakowitz allegedly bragged to acquaintances in Tompkins Square Park that he had killed and eaten his girlfriend Monika Beerle, a Swiss dance student at the Martha Graham Center. He was arrested and tried for the murder in 1991, being found insane with the help of juror/actress Sunny Hostin.

Yeah, remember that Sunny Hostin is now an actress. She always has been, and was in 1991. Her real name is Asuncion Cummings. They admit she is part Jewish. See my paper on the Clan Cumming, where I prove they come from the Comnenes, Byzantine Emperors, which also makes them Cohens. In February 1991 she was 22 and should have been in school at either Binghamton University or Notre Dame, so what was she doing on this jury in New York City? So this new story does a lot of things, including blow her posted bio to shreds. Binghamton is in upstate New York, near Ithaca, nowhere near Manhattan, so students from there should not be called for jury duty.

Sunny now tells us she eventually swayed the entire jury to vote not guilty, after initially outnumbering her 11 to 1; but again, she was just 22. Do you really think a 22-year-old Sunny Hostin is going to turn an entire jury in Manhattan?

Sunny allegedly has a law degree, but her career started as a commentator for Court TV. That does not require a law degree, and besides Court TV is another CIA front, so this couldn't be a bigger red flag. She then segued to the O'Reilly Factor on Fox, where she yakked with Megan Kelly and Bill O'Reilly, pretending that was a debate. Again, no law degree required for that. Her husband Emmanuel Hostin is being pursued in a civil case for Insurance Fraud under the RICO act. So I hope you are getting a lay of the land here.

The quickest way to blow this Rakowitz event is to look him up at FastPeopleSearch. He is supposed to be in Kirby Forensic Psychiatric Center on Ward's Island, but the big computer thinks he is in a $2 million dollar flat in Lower Manhattan.

Any questions? I could quit there, but I will continue for the sake of thoroughness, and because it is just so darn easy.

That is public information, which I got on a free search, so I am not doxxing anyone. Just blowing the cover of this fake and illegal story from CIA or some other government entity, which is not supposed to be running psyops like this. Strangely, though willing to give us his current address, they have scrubbed all relatives. Possibly to prevent me from linking him by blood to Sunny Hostin. I suspect they are cousins. That is how we have found it always works, including this month in the Lindsay Clancy case, where everyone was closely related, including the jurors, the Clancys, the prosecutors, and the judge. So let's dig from Sunny's end. I find her not as Sunny Hostin, but as Asuncion Cummings of New York, related to Hostin. The strange thing is she is listed as 83 or 86, so that should be her mother or aunt or something. But this older person is aka Hostin, which makes no sense, because only the younger Asuncion Cummings should be aka Hostin. FastpeopleSearch actually returns no listings for an Asuncion Cummings or Hostin, age 57. Instantcheckmate has a listing for her, age 67, otherwise scrubbed. How about Radaris? Guess what, they shut it down, probably due to my papers. No doubt FastPeopleSearch will soon be killed as well.

Couldn't find her related to Rakowitz, but did find her related to Baptistes of Haiti, since her husband Hostin is Haitian. I remind you we linked two actors in the Lindsay Clancy case through the Baptistes of Haiti: black juror Desronvil and prosecutor Shanan Buckingham, nee Baptiste. So this is all coming together beautifully.

Also interesting that no results are found nationwide for a Monika Beerle at any people search. They made her up. You will say there is a Findagrave page for her, except it has zero info. It says she was cremated, so there is no grave. Convenient. She had no parents and her remains were not returned to Switzerland. Nothing is known of her. And the pics are ridiculous. Both obvious fakes that don't match the one below from Village Voice. These pics have been added since 2023, which makes no sense.

If you want more BS on this one, go to the Village Voice article of 1989 by Max Cantor, who wrote the screenplay for this hoax. It is linked from the Wiki page for Rakowitz. It reads as total fiction, with fake witnesses given only fake first names, to prevent anyone from confirming or non-confirming any of this horse manure. The article is date October 10, 1989, aces and eights, since October means eighth month. The article is otherwise full of the same numerology.

“And I have 18 letters to my name. I was born in the 21st Hour, which is 9:02 p.m., which they say signifies the coming of the Lord Jesus, according to what the Bible says.”

His father Arthur Cantor was a famous Broadway producer, which is apropos since Max was also a producer of fiction. Jewish of course.

He died from a heroin overdose at the age of 32. At the time he died, he was conducting research and writing a book about Daniel Rakowitz and the murder of dancer Monika Beerle.[\[1\]\[2\]](#)

So, another ghost.

Rakowitz's father, Tony, was a deputy in the small South Texas town of Rockport.

That's what Cantor tells us, but they now admit it was a lie. They weren't from Rockport and his father wasn't a deputy. He was an Army Special Investigator.

At 19, Rakowitz enlisted in the army. He became an expert rifleman and spent 14 weeks in army law-enforcement school.

Now that I believe, since Rakowitz is obviously a military actor. And I remind you that Rakowitz is a Jewish name. See artist Michael Rakowitz, sold as Iraqi but Grok admits he is Jewish. Also do what I did: search on Rakowitz Wikitree, where you find the first listing on the page is for Alois Rakowitz. As Will Hunting would say, how do you like them apples? We find a Barbara Rakowitz Zaiontz from Bexar County, Texas, who is the right age to be Daniel's mother (84). She is scrubbed in all of Daniel's bios, which conspicuously never mention his mother, except to say she died when he was young. That is apparently also a lie, since if this Barbara is her, she died after 2016. Wikitree lists her but then scrubs her, which I also see as a clue. So let's look her up at FastPeopleSearch. Voila, we do find her still alive, 84, living in Bexar County (San Antonio), but as Barbara Zaiontz, not Rakowitz. She is aka Rakowitz, however, as well as aka Adappukal. Google has no results for Adappukal, but Yandex has one from Radaris for an Annette Burnham Adappukal. FastPeopleSearch does indeed have a listing for her, aka Zaiontz, related to Stewarts, Klines, and Solomons of Kansas City. Confirming my conclusions once again.

So now we know why they changed where Rakowitz was from. Zaiontz is a variation of Zion, of course, other spellings include Zaentz, see producer Saul Zaentz. These Rakowitz are also related to Zigmond, Preiss, Tudyk, Kulesza, Ramzinski, Kaczmarek, Kosub, Panek, and Poklitar. They came over from Posnan in Poland, but are definitely Jewish. The Preisses are known to be Jewish, see for example Alfred Preis, who designed the Arizona Memorial in Pearl Harbor.

Also see the noble von Radowitz family, including the famous Joseph von Radowitz, a count, Prussian statesman, and general around 1850. His wife was a von Voss. Interestingly, these von Vosses were also living in Southern Texas in the 1900s. See Verginia Engel von Voss, born in Houston in 1937. She married a Habsburg von Osterreich, Prince of Hungary and Tuscany, in 1960 in Houston. He is also a Bourbon, Saxe, and Hohenzollern. The von Vosses also link us to the Kings of Prussia.

You should also know that Rakowitz is also spelled Rakovitch, and they are also European nobles in the US. See Laurent Rakovitch of Nyack, Rockland County, NY, who married Ana Isakov in 1918. Her mother was the Countess Tarnovskaya, from Russia. Her father was the illegitimate son of Alexander Romanov, Tsar of Russia. Laurent's daughter Anna married Franciszek Brzezinski. This location of Nyack, NY, may explain Daniel Rakowitz's connection to New York. Nyack is just north of Manhattan.

Returning to the name Zigmond above, in the lists of the Rakowitizes of South Texas, the name was originally Zsigmond, and it links us to the same European noble families. See Susi Zsigmond in the peerage, who married the Prince of Hohenlohe-Langenberg around 1980.

Matt Taibbi also gets caught in this net, because Max Cantor admits at Village Voice that his father Mike Taibbi interviewed Rakowitz on the street in 1988, when he was working for WCBS TV. Mike did 30 minutes with Rakowitz but later erased most of it. Why? Now you know. He was interviewing an agent and actor and was therefore part of this fraud. At the time, Rakowitz was selling Operation Chaos through the band Missing Foundation. Which means? It means Missing Foundation was also a CIA front. It was started by Peter Missing, real name Colangelo, sold as Italian but really Jewish. See the owners of the Phoenix Suns. Don't believe me? Go to Wikitree again, where we find these Colangelos of Arizona and Colorado related to Vitti, Zeppa, Clingman. Other Colangelos married Damone, Hager, and MacDonald of Reading. Also related to the Bushes. Plus, here is Peter Missing's picture at Wiki:

What do you see? What I see is US Navy right above his head. Also a NOWSCO hat. Why would this industrial noise subversive be wearing a oil and gas drilling hat and a US Polo Association jacket? Just to mess with you and test your intelligence.

From the Village Voice:

So Shawn spilled the story to the building superintendant who told the detectives. On the door of the apartment, they saw graffiti written in black magic marker: "IS IT SOUP YET?" and "WELCOME TO CHARLIE GEIN'S SPAUN RANCH EAST." (Charlie Gein is a conflation of Charles Manson and Ed Gein, the serial killer on whom Psycho's Norman Bates was based; the Spahn Ranch — misspelled on the door — was the home of the Manson family.) Yet they found no evidence of a murder.

What they did find is their agents referencing these previous fakes. The Manson murders were also faked by the spooks, as was Ed Gein and all other serial killers. I have blown the cover of most of them.

After his arrest, Rakowitz led the detectives to the Port Authority baggage storage room where he produced a claim check for an Army duffel bag. Inside the bag was a white plastic bucket, and inside the bucket were a skull and bones.

But were that skull and those bones ever identified as Monika Beerle? No.

If you have heard of this case, you may have seen that picture, assuming it was a picture he took of Monika after he killed her. But notice the subtext: it is allegedly from her own resume. So why the line of fake blood? Just so that they could later ditch that subtext at the Village Voice and use it to sell this story. As they have. They want you to think she is dead there, though they admit she isn't. She wasn't stupid and wasn't crazy . . . and wasn't Monika Beerle.
