

So Many Fakes, so Little Time

The question is no longer is there any fake news, it's is there any real news? Not much that I could find.

We will start with the fake school shooting of the week, this time in Madison, Wisconsin. Allegedly done by a pretty 15-year-old girl, as above, at Abundant Life Christian Academy. This fiction comes straight from AI, as you can tell from the report from AOL, which was top-listed for me on the search "Madison Shooting". Here is the title there:

Shooting in Madison is the latest carnage at a US school or college over the past 25 years.

Hmmm, someone neglected to teach the robot English, as well as the idea of time, since that sentence makes no sense. Neither do the first sentences of the article itself:

Hundreds of people in the U.S. have died in shootings over the past 25 years in places like offices, stores and theaters, but the carnage perhaps hits hardest when it happens in schools and colleges.

In those cases, the victims are children who still have some of their baby teeth, newly adult students with career and family dreams, and teachers who often become role models and mentors to their young students.

That wasn't even written by someone with English as a fourth language, since the problem isn't one of translation. It is one of ignorance of human life, since "newly adult students" don't still have some of their baby teeth. Newly adult highschool students don't still have baby teeth, so this is just pathetic. It wasn't even proofed by a human.

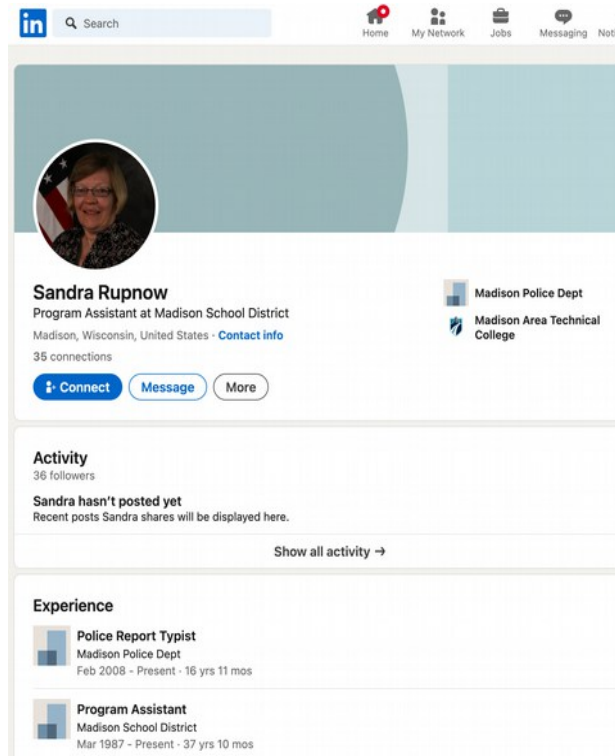

The whole script is like that: a treacly goulash of absurdities and impossibilities, heavily sprinkled with giveaways. You would have to be plugged into some wall socket yourself, buzzing and blinking, to fall for any of it.

Despite that, everyone but me appears to have gotten a memo to sell it as real, including Alex Jones, Mike Adams, and the rest of the alternative press. They are giving you the conspiracy theory spin, reading it as mind-controlled assassins or something, but no one remembers these things could be faked, and always have been. Strange, since these are the same people who—just a few years ago—were outing these events as fake, including Sandy Hook, Boston Marathon, and many others. But five years on all that is forgotten. Youtube has been shut down for fake events research, and so have all the alternative sites. They have all been ordered to fall in line. They are still allowed to question the motive, but they cannot question whether it actually happened.

Here's another way you can tell it is fake off the top. In the mainstream reports, they are using the event to blackwash Christianity, making sure to point out that this school was not teaching Evolution. What does that have to do with a murder, or a school shooting? Nothing, but we can tell it was a secondary thesis of the script. The primary thesis of the script was Women-are-Pigs, to go with the already over-saturated Men-are-Pigs. They needed some more female shooters, since it is impossible to tear down the male sex any more than it already has been. But these manufactured events always have secondary points, since they can use one event to sell multiple storylines and plots.

What have all the researchers so far missed, I assume on purpose? Well, how about that Natalie “Samantha” Rupnow is Jewish. (How do you get Samantha from Natalie?) Rupnow is a Jewish name, see German historian Dirk Rupnow, who has a page at English Wikipedia. He has taught Jewish studies at Dartmouth and Duke, and has done a fellowship at the US Holocaust Memorial Museum. How about that Natalie's young uncle Jacob, 33, was a marksmanship instructor for the Marines, after that getting a degree in criminal justice. His LinkedIN profile is dormant or scrubbed since 2016, though he is listed as “military professional”. How about that her mother Melissa, 44, has a page at Instantcheckmate, but her husband Jeff is not on it. Jacob is on it, but not Jeff. Melissa is not on Jeff's page either. Melissa's recent locations are in Milwaukee or its vicinity, not Madison. Jeff has only one location, Madison, but he has only one Rupnow on his list, that being Sandra. The others are Tuttle. Sandra, 70, would appear to be his mother. Is Heather Tuttle, 46, his sister or his second wife? Either way, we find a location of Burtonsville, MD, for her, just north of DC. We also link to the prominent Rolls and Oswalds of this area.

Here's a good one: that Sandra Rupnow has a page at LinkedIN, where we find she has been a program assistant for the Madison School District for 38 years, as well as Police Report Typist for the Madison Police Department for 17 years:

Just a coincidence, I'm sure.

That Heather Tuttle links us by blood to the Ver Kuilens, including James Ver Kuilen, 29-year veteran of the Menasha Police Department, where he specialized in . . . are you ready? . . . police-school liaison officer.

So as usual, those coincidences are really piling up.

Here's another good clue: Natalie's boyfriend has now admitted that the photo of her first released by the government (first, above) was changed. But did they just mess up her hair, take all the color out of her face, and goggle her eyes, to make her look crazy? As they did with Martin Bryant in Port Arthur, Australia. Or did they also paste that deco on her shirt, to tie her to the Columbine shooters? You know the answer. They want you to think she was following previous famous school shooters . . . except for one problem. The Columbine shooting was fake, too, so tying this to that is just more proof it was fake. Those kids were also military brats tied to the nearby base in Aurora, literally just across the fence from the school. So we can be pretty sure this current fake came out of Truax AFB in north Madison, about three miles away on US51 from the school. So convenient!

Turns out this Abundant Life School isn't some small local Christian academy. It is part of the huge City Church of Madison, which owns properties all over the city, including the gigantic Madison Gospel Tabernacle, and which itself is part of the spooky Fellowship of Christian Assemblies. A search on "who we are" on all these sites leads you nowhere, leading me to believe the whole kit and caboodle is one more CIA front. Also interesting is that Abundant Life costs about $10,000 a year to attend, so it is for rich kids. Most people can't afford that.

Natalie had just arrived, being at the school for only a few weeks, again pointing at a manufactured event.

The mayor of Madison, who has now made an ass of herself in national media, turns out to be a lady named Satya Rhodes-Conway, so not only a Rhodes from the peerage, but a fake Indian name. She isn't Indian, so she is either an ex-yoga teacher or a spook pushing that neo-Theosophy BS. She is a Smith College lesbian, so neither Rhodes nor Conway is her husband's name, doubling my bet she is peerage. Turns out her mother is a Rhodes and her father is a Conway, and they are both in the arts. Her mother paints really bad water lilies. Her father is a curator, currently working for the Bruce Conner estate in San Francisco. Not a good sign, either, though to be expected here, since Conner was a Warhol/Rauschenberg-type fake, creating trash films and garbage art.

Dennis Hopper learned some of his schtick from that creep. No real curator would have anything to do with that mess.

Satya Rhodes-Conway has been very unpopular as mayor from the first week, soon getting crossways with the police department and earning a 95% no-confidence from them in her first year. But maybe this new event will pull them together, as they are both ordered to play along by CIA/DHS/Air Force or whoever.

I feel sorry for this poor Natalie girl, and not because she is dead, since she isn't. I feel sorry for her because she agreed to be part of this: it will haunt her for the rest of her life. And she wasn't even old enough to know what she was getting into. It reminds me of gymnast Simone Biles, who did a similar thing getting involved in the Larry Nassar fake. It actually caught up with her very fast, costing her several medals at the Olympics, something she had been training for most of her young life. She will never get those years back, since what is lost is lost forever. She will think of that every day for the rest of her life. Same with Natalie.

What else have we got on our plate this month? Oh yeah, the drones! Are they Chinese, UFOs, sniffing for nuclear leaks, or just bold hobbyists ignored by the military? Try none of the above. It is another nothingburger fake, like the Chinese balloons, manufactured to fill headlines. In this case it is the local AFBs buzzing themselves with their own toys, to generate a general panic. Because they literally have nothing better to do with the four trillion or so they steal from you every years for “defense” and “intelligence” than to buzz the cities with drones, drive their aircraft carriers around in the Indian Ocean mooning fake Houthis, or running these fake shootings, rapes, and other mayhem. This is your taxdollars at work. Support those troops!

What about the assassination attempt against Nick Fuentes? Fake. Let's see: on December 18, at 11:38pm, so aces and eights twice, a guy showed up at Fuentes' front door with a drawn gun and a crossbow, right under his porch camera, and yelled “Yo Nick!” Because that makes sense. If you wanted to kill Nick, you wouldn't wait for him to leave, like to the market, follow him, and then attack him in some out-of-the-way place. No, you would go ring his doorbell and yell at him.

This same guy allegedly committed a triple homicide just before knocking on Nick's door, because, again, that is a good way to move under-the-radar. You want to kill all his next-door neighbors in a hail of bullets, like some scene from RED, before casually walking over and yelling “Nicky, come out and play!” All Nick has to do is shoot him through the window, but I guess this genius never thought of that. So many actors, so many death wishes.

And of course he didn't just bust through a window and kill Fuentes, he stupidly stood there on the porch until police arrived, got trapped away from his car, and had to flee on foot, shooting the neighbor's dogs on his way before getting gunned down by the boys in blue. So scenic! It will look so good on the big screen, brought to you by Kathryn Bigelow or someone.

And in other news, Virginia governor Youngkin is claiming his state will be the first to build a fusion power plant. Another boondoggle, since there is no such thing. But they figure that if they can fool you with fission, they can fool you again with fusion. You will buy anything that is printed in the papers, so they will continue billing you for it. Remember how fission was supposed to be safe and so cheap they couldn't even meter the energy? It was going to be almost free! Didn't really pan out, did it? Energy costs keep rising for the average family, including electricity, and fusion will just accelerate that again, to cover the costs of these new plants. And if my guess is right, they will fake a bunch of meltdowns and other catastrophes, so they can bill you for cleaning that up as well.

Speaking of nukes, stories from both the mainstream and alternative presses continue to sell fear of nuclear armageddon, with The Economist leading the fearporn. It is missiles and mushroom clouds everywhere. Barely a break for Santa, since the space is needed for gaslighting you with nukes. Mike Adams is again pushing the idea Trump will be targeted with a backpack nuke, and Alex Jones is publicizing it. You have to laugh. There are no nukes. It is just the same duckncover crap they have been pushing since 1945. You can also ignore all the bluff from Putin, since he is in on it.

That first fat-ass is Steven Seagal. Mickey Rourke and Gerard Depardieu are also pals with Putin. The Kremlin is little more than Hollywood-east, and Putin our tough-talking midget from Moscow who can play the foil to the Pentagon. It is vaudeville right out of Orwell's 1984, with Putin playing the part of Eurasia. Putin is an actual cousin to many Hollywood stars, including DiCaprio, Penn, Pitt, Jolie, and Natalie Wood, who is still alive (if she hasn't died of old age).

What about the looming government shutdown? Bring it on! It would be the best thing that could happen, if all these crooks would stop spending your stolen money for a while. Shut it all down permanently, including the military, the CIA, the NIH, the CDC, the department of miseducation, NASA, the FDA, and all the rest of it. It is nothing more than a massive conjob and theft from the taxpayers, who not only are getting nothing for their trillions each year, they are getting a brainwashing and mindfick beyond any ever imagined by Mesmer, Marx, Orwell, Bernays, Barnum, Freud, or Crowley. You are being de-sexed, de-dollared, de-educated, and permanently marooned in a nowhere-ville of absolute nullity and inanity, with computers feeding you a constant mash of pretend language, pretend science, pretend art, and pretend events. You are already just a click away from virtual reality, even without the idiot-goggles.
