

The Austin Murders are Fake

by Miles Mathis

March 3, 2026

Of course. Just a few hours after the attack on Iran, a guy wearing a “Property of Allah” sweatshirt and having Ayatollah literature in his car opens fire from that car in a 6th Street alleyway, killing three. Except that he isn’t Irani, he is Senegalese. From Senegal, West Africa. So why would this black guy, Ndiaga Diagne, be an Ayatollah fanboy?

But before we continue, I remind you that a real Muslim would not have a sweatshirt like that, so they are leading this with a joke and a clue, which they are you sure you—as a stupid American—won’t get. A shirt that like would be considered blasphemous by any real Muslim, especially one religious enough to kill as part of a private holy war. You are also forgetting we are in Ramadan, a time of fasting and prayer for Muslims, so not a great time for a shoot-em-up. I doubt that many real Muslims are buying this.

The first thing I did is look up this Diagne, 53, at the people searches. He is there, but appears to be from San Antonio, so probably a soldier or asset at one of the bases there. He is previously of New York City. But the first hit was on one of his close relatives, Oumar T. Diagne, 48, also of New York. However, there is a second Oumar Diagne, 53, who, due to the age, may be a twin or alias. This guy has a more interesting locations list, which includes Silver Spring, MD, and many other addresses in that area. Which is . . . CIA. You might think this is just a name mix-up, but Ndiaga is also related to a Cheikh Diagne, 59, who also has locations in Maryland near Langley. So it is beginning to appear that we are looking at a family of CIA actors. And there’s more. Ndiaga is related to a Babacar Diagne, 77, who is related to a Souleymane (Suleiman) Diop, who just happens to have an IMDB page, where we find he is an actor, having appeared in the “real ghost movie” Apartment 143. Doing a Google Search on Babacar Diagne pulls up a younger one, 15, in Coventry, England, who made the BBC news in 2020 for being murdered while on his bike by three local youths, races not given. But I assume this was a manufactured race war event, just like the ones we have here in the US.

Which led me to look up the name Diagne more broadly. Turns out this family is very prominent in Senegal, just as I expected, having many members in the government and also in international sports, especially football (soccer). Also see Senegalese media mogul Madiambal Diagne, who has been in court in France this year, since Senegal wants extradition to charge him with financial misconduct. Amazingly, that article just came out today, which can't be a coincidence.

Even better, another Babacar Diagne came up, since he was the US Ambassador from Senegal starting in 2015. Prior to that appointment, he was head of Senegal's state radio and TV service RTS, the main propaganda arm of the country. And where did he live as ambassador? DC, of course, so he might have a Maryland address. And does. So could this be the Babacar Diagne, 77, we already saw, related to our Ndiaga Diagne? Well, going by the age alone, close but not quite, this ambassador being born in 1951. So he would be 74. But we could still have a match, since these ages are often off by a couple of years. To check that, I looked him up at Instantcheckmate, age 74 and in DC. He came up, but scrubbed of all relatives. FastpeopleSearch lists him still in DC today, in a 7,000sqft $6.5 million home, but again no relatives. However, we link there to Truthfinder, which lists below him a Babacar Diagne, 52, who appears to be his son, also of DC, but having addresses in Germantown, Maryland, and Hurst, TX, and giving us a pretty hard link to our current fake event.

Next let's look at the alleged victims, starting with Savitha Shan, said to have been a student at UT. She is actually Savitha Shanmugasundaram, 21, and Austin is her only address at Instantcheckmate, which is unlikely. Most students are from other cities and states. She has no relatives listed, a huge read flag, telling me this listing was recently inserted or scrubbed. Confirming that is that Radaris and FastPeopleSearch have never heard of her, in Austin or anywhere else. Her photo also looks fishy:

Looks computer-generated to me, mostly due to the background and arms. Plus, if you are an angry Muslim, mad about the Iran war, you aren't going to target brown people. You would expect Diagne to target drunk white guys, right? Plenty of those on 6th Street at 2am on a Saturday night.

And that's another clue: the shooting was right at closing time, 2am. Most people had already gone home, so fewer witnesses to this staged event in an alley, where the police were there in under one minute. How does that work? And how fast does this guy work? The Iran war starts on Saturday, and that same night, just a few hours later, Ndiaga has hatched a plan, loaded his guns and Ayatollah literature and blasphemous Allah hoodies in the car and driven to Austin from San Antonio, where he immediately carries it out, martyring himself for his God. So touching. So believable.

"As a dual-degree student at the University of Texas at Austin, I blend a strong foundation in Management Information Systems and Economics with a passion for using technology to solve complex business problems. With hands-on experience in technology strategy consulting, product management, and business analytics, I've had the opportunity to work with organizations ranging from global financial institutions to early-stage startups," Shan wrote in her LinkedIn bio.

Described by professors as a "superstar student," she was set to graduate in May 2026 and had already secured a position at a major professional services firm.

Lots of clues there. She is 21 but has already worked for global financial institutions? What, like the World Bank? And what firm had she secured a position at? Is CIA a professional services firm now? You could say so.

The news reports are telling us the FBI is scouring thousands of hours of video footage. Really? The event took one minute, so why would they be scouring thousands of hours of video? He couldn't have cased the place, since the Iran War only started a few hours earlier. And he is already dead, so what if they find him on video there months earlier? Will that help them track his corpse back to his grave, which they just dug? This is all the usual clownshow.

Next victim is given as Ryder Harrington, 19, from Texas Tech. He is Beta Theta Pi, the oldest and maybe the spookiest of all fraternities. Founded by John Knox August 8, 1839, aces and eights, of course.

Harrington's GoFundMe is already above $100,000, so that's cosy. Just a few hours after his death, his brother Reed had already posted a statement with four pictures on Facebook. Man, these people don't waste any time.

Something a little too perfect about that, too.

“From the entire Harrington family, thanks to everyone who has reached out and sent their condolences.”

That's how it starts. But wait, the statement is dated March 1, the same date as the event (Sunday), so how many people could have contacted the family by then? The family had only been notified that morning themselves, so they hadn't even had time to process the death, much less gather photos and write statements to the public for Facebook. But his sister Reagan was also calm and quick enough to post on Instagram on the same day.

My best friend. I can't believe you aren't here with me right now.

Ryder, there are no words to describe the love I have for you. I also can't even try to begin to type out my feelings. Nothing would be enough to express how special you are to me.

I could talk about you forever. You were the kindest, funniest, and most important person in my life. To know you was to love you — I've truly never met someone so loved in my entire life.

I will never be the same and no relationship will ever compare to ours. We understood each other in a way that no one else quite could, and everyone who knew us knew that we

That's not in Lubbock, that's at the Capitol building. So a prominent family, as I already guessed from his upperclass name. And these statements are so greeting-card treacly they could have only been written by AI.

And here's a huge clue:

Texas House Speaker Dustin Burrows posted about Harrington on X on Sunday evening, noting that the teenager was the brother-in-law of someone on his own team.

Ah, so Tyler Harrington, gunned down in this event at random, just happens to be that close to the Speaker of the House? What a coincidence! What are the effing odds? In his post Burrows tells us the names of those people, Ryan and Avery, which is Ryan Harrington, 30, and Avery Martinez, so another older brother of Tyler. Which means Avery works for Burrows; but we find with further research Ryan works in the office of Governor Greg Abbott. Remember, I was able to link Greg Abbott to the Uvalde event as well, since he is related to people in it.

And the Reed we just saw is Reed Chase Harrington, 26, so this just keeps getting better. You may assume Chase is a given name, but I assume it is a surname. All three of those names are surnames, and they all fit together, as we have found in hundreds of papers: Reed, Chase, Harrington. Those banking families are all related. See for example Chase Harrington, CEO of Entrata and member of the Forbes Business Council. In fact, I found probable links between this Chase Harrington of Lehi, UT, and these Harringtons in our story. This CEO has links to both Georgia and Texas and is related to Hammers. Our family is related to a Chase Harrington of California, though I wasn't able to make a firm connection between the two Chase Harringtons. Intel now knows I am working on this and they are scrubbing pages almost while I watch. It is a race.

You may also be interested to know Queen Camila's grandmother was Edith Harrington. Wiki sells her as a previous milliner, daughter of a clerk, but that is their usual lie and sob story. The Harringtons have been nobles since the 1200s. The Stanhopes were later the Earls of Harrington. Before that the Greys, Dukes of Suffolk, were also Barons Harrington. They were also Brandons and Tudors, the last from Henry VII, so really Stanleys. The Harringtons were previously Heveringtons in the time of Richard I.

The mother in our event is Cindy Archer Chase Harrington of Austin and Milledgeville, GA, an attorney and contracts analyst for Electric Transmission Texas, a subsidiary of Berkshire Hathaway. You see, I was right, Chase is a surname: it is the mother's maiden name. It may be Tyler's middle name as well, so you can see why they would suppress that.

Let's also look at the owner of the bar, Buford's, since it is looking like a staging area for this fake. It is owned by Bob Emery Woody, 66, who owns several other bars in Austin. He is related to a B. K. Emery-Clay Woody, 44, of Hawaii, I suppose his son. I give you all those names because that is how I am planning to connect him—through the names. He is also related to McKnights, Bradfields, Lamkins, Stewarts, Sheppards, Faulkners, Huffmans, Rinehardts, and Lejeunes (of Alexandria, Louisiana), and has many links to San Antonio through close relatives, so a best first guess is he is related to someone on a military base there or to Governor Abbott or Speaker of the House Burrows.

I wanted to compare to Greg Abbott's list, for obvious reasons, but Radaris has scrubbed all of the governor's relatives. You can now see why. They may have done it in the last hour, to prevent me from getting any deeper here. Though Radaris normally lists lots of relatives. Truthfinder isn't much use, either, since it gives only Audrey Abbott. That is his daughter, but she links only to him. FastPeopleSearch cut me off completely, saying I was asking too many questions. No really, it actually scolded me for running too many searches and cut me off. So I remembered I could go back to my own paper on Uvalde for this, where I already did some digging on Abbott and his family. And boy did I get a big hit. If you remember, I linked him through a James Abbott to the Eva Mireles allegedly killed there. Guess who is also on that James Abbott's list? Elizabeth Herrington, 56, currently of Boerne, TX.

Does Herrington=Harrington? Historically yes, but does it in this event? Let us see. I already keyed on Elizabeth Herrington in the Uvalde paper, since among her many locations are Joint Base McChord, WA, and Joint Base Ft. Sam Houston (San Antonio). In 2022 she had about 100 people on her relatives list, but that has now been scrubbed down to eight. Related to Dimler, Garay, Garcia, Abbott, and Avodah, now, but originally also related to Dicenzo, Dearmott, Broguiere, Ford, Fuller, Guidry, Harris, Hernandez, Holley, Kartune, Mccaffrey, Mielke, Richards, Rios, Saleh, Salinas, Schwalm, and Wheeler. So at least one of those names was considered too hot to leave up, in regard to future research like this. Instantcheckmate does not also list her as Harrington, but Radaris lists her as AKA Abbott, Dimler, McCaffrey, and Garcia. So she either likes to get married or likes to use aliases. She is related to a Michael Herrington, so that one is not an alias. He is related to a Schiff, as good as a Chase.

I did find an Elizabeth Harrington of that age in San Antonio, but it wasn't a direct match. So we have to keep looking. I found that Michael Herrington is listed twice, both 68 and 64, but definitely the same guy since he has the same locations and relatives. But the second one links him to Georgia, where the first one did not. Remember our Harringtons and Chases are from there. He is from Baxley and Hazlehurst there, and also related to Reeves and Gettys. Finally I found that these Herringtons of Austin and San Antonio do sometimes have Harringtons on their relatives lists, indicating some kind of fudging is going on. Since Elizabeth Herrington is related to Gov. Abbott, that means Abbott is also probably related to this Harrington kid. I didn't find the actual link, but you can see how close I got in just a few hours of work. I had already found the probable link in the Uvalde paper.

Finally, I hit on Randall Harrington, 70, of Georgia, closely related to our family here, and his list was a goldmine: Stewart, Pinkerton, Morgan, Stoddard, Howard, Reeves, and Livingston. I remind you that Bob Woody of Buford's bar is related to Stewarts (through Nikisha Sheppard, 51). And I remind you that Michael Herrington, just above, was also a Reeves. Giving us another link between Herrington and Harrington, and therefore another link to Gov. Abbott. So I would say we are looking at another inside job.

Radaris is being such a help here, I decided to run Gov. Abbott's wife through it, since she didn't come up back in 2022 with the searches I was using then. Nope, Radaris at least knows she exists, but it lists her with zero relatives, same as Greg Abbott. FastPeopleSearch does not list a Greg Abbott of Austin. It lists Cecilia Abbott with only Greg as a relative. Now you understand why the people searches have been scrubbed regarding the Abbotts. But even with that scrubbing, I was able to connect all the actors in the play.
