

OK, This is Getting Weird

by Miles Mathis

February 4, 2025

I would like to start by doing my now tri-annual reminder to feed the webkitty. I normally wait until February to do my first one of the year, often doing it on or around Groundhog Day, to give you time to recover from Christmas and other holiday spending. Some readers beat me to the punch, already donating, and I thank them heartily. The rest of you can donate via the kitties on my site, or by going to Paypal by hand and donating to mileswmathis@yahoo.com, or by sending a check, silver, or any other portable property to me at POBox 335, Garden Valley CA 95633. I remind you as I always do that this site is about the last place on the internet you can enter for free and get premium content with no ads, no pop-ups, no fund drives, and no promotion of . . . well, just about anything. I don't link to other people, sites, parties, companies, organizations, or cults. I have no merchandize other than my four physics books, and I never push those on you or even mention them, even on my science site. This brief reminder is all you will get for about five months, since I have better things to do than think about money.

It has been a very strange two weeks, as I think anyone will agree. Even if you are 100% with Trump, you have to admit nothing even close to this has ever happened before. Personally I am with Ron Paul in finding the attack on USAid welcome and overdue. The place has long been a front for CIA. And this running the country by executive order may seem necessary in the short term, considering how corrupt Congress has long been. They have to be driven around, though we are in very dangerous territory. It didn't work too well during Covid, remember, where everything was done by driving around legislatures and ruling by executive dictats.

It is all strictly unConstitutional, but so is everything else that has happened over the past 50 years, so it is hard to judge on that alone. It is great as long as Trump is doing good things, but of course terrible when he isn't.

What I find most alarming is all the strange land grabs, which started under Biden with the land grab in Maui and then more recently in LA. Now Trump is talking about taking Palestine, Panama, Greenland, and renaming the Gulf of Mexico. Oh, and don't forget Canada and Mexico itself, our soon-to-be 51st and 52nd states. Or, according to Obama, our 55th and 56th states.

At first it was amusing since most of us thought it was one of Trump's jokes or exaggerations. Buying Greenland makes some sense, since you can be sure it is stiff with minerals, and why should tiny little Denmark take them all? But today when Trump was with Netanyahu talking about taking Palestine, I stopped laughing. Israel taking it by fraud is bad enough, but the US? Turning it into a New Riviera, as Trump said. WAY too revelatory, since it is what I accused them of doing in Maui and LA. Resorts for the rich. I doubt Greenland will be a resort for the rich, but who knows? It's a fairly short plane ride from the East Coast, and they can treat it like an ice bath and sauna.

Even weirder is that Trump and his administration don't seem to have any plan for reassigning all these federal workers he is firing and buying out. Yes, we needed to vastly downsize government, especially the federal bureaucracy, but we have to do something with all those people. Can the private sector absorb them all? Unlikely, since the private sector was just obliterated during Covid and I have heard nothing from Trump about re-animating it. And remember, this comes at a really bad time, since Trump's boy Musk and his pals in Big Tech are planning to give a huge number of jobs to robots and machines. So what do they have planned for the rest of us? Tent cities? Young people can't even be coders now, since machines will do that, too. I guess we will need more coal shovelers to feed the machines. Instead of becoming a coder, you can shovel coal into a furnace like an orc in Mordor.

Musk says we actually need MORE people, but he hasn't told us what for, so it seems like another reversal, kind of like him saying he isn't in favor of government subsidies. The guy who has gotten more government subsidies than anyone else in history. And given that the fake pandemic now looks like a first effort to cull the herd, you can't blame us for being suspicious when Trump fires everyone with zero plans for job creation. What started out looking like a housecleaning is starting to look like preparation for a further genocide.

In my opinion, those places that should be most worried are India, China, Indonesia, Africa, and Europe, in that order, since that is where the densest populations are. The Western Hemisphere requires the smallest cull, but that didn't save us from being included in the test during Covid, did it? You would expect the East Coast and West Coast to be targeted first, and guess what, the West Coast has already shown definite signs of that. Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, and Seattle especially, not just with Covid but with many side projects like Fentanyl, fires, etc. DC is currently being downsized by 5-10%, hopefully without mass deaths, so we should expect New York, Philadelphia, Boston, and Toronto to follow.

The guys I used to follow back in the 1980s like Wendell Berry were arguing we needed to move people out of the cities and back to the farms, which I still think makes sense. But Trump isn't talking about that, is he? He isn't talking about small organic farms and fewer huge tractors and therefore less oil and gas and coal. He isn't shaking hands with the Amish and talking about returning to the Earth. So again, where are all these people going to go and what are they going to do? Crickets, which is very worrisome.

More worrisome is that even if you agree the world was overpopulated, a lot of what is happening isn't necessary. In that case you concentrate on India and China, you don't attack the US with bugs and fires and hurricanes and EM and food shortages and Fentanyl and fake events. Why not lead with subsidies to encourage people to move to less populous US states and Canadian provinces? I will be told that is what all the Asians coming to the US is about, but is it really? Don't they all move to the big cities and the South, where is warmer, further clogging up those places? Do any of them end up in the Dakotas? How many Asians are in Wyoming or Manitoba? You will say we can't force immigrants into certain locales. Why not? We moved most of our own people into the cities during the 20th century via various programs, so why not immigrants? We could very easily put restrictions on where immigrants could go, and will have to do that someday. They can't keep going to the big cities, as they are finally admitting in Europe. They have already ruined their big cities in Asia—and are near to doing it in Europe—so why should we be required to let them do it here as well, going where they like and having unlimited babies? If you don't know what I am talking about, go to Calcutta or Bombay or Shanghai and get back to me. If you think San Francisco is a mess, go visit Calcutta.

Anyway, that was a digression. What I was pointing out is that culling in the Western Hemisphere isn't even remotely necessary, and it is even less necessary in the American West and in Canada. So it doesn't come close to explaining what is going on here. Same for the misaimed environmentalism in this country, which is now so misaimed it is ludicrous. Aerosoling the skies, burying trees, genetically modifying mosquitoes? Again, these look like Dr. Evil culling schemes masquerading as environmentalism, and Trump needs to arrest and jail Bill Gates and the rest of these madmen before they kill us all. So you have to ask why Trump is targeting rank-and-file FBI agents instead going after big fish like Gates and Fauci. Is releasing the JFK files really more important than gutting the big private foundations like Gates, Rockefeller, Ford, Carnegie, Aspen and all the rest, and putting their directors in jail for treason?

This is all to say that while in general I tend to like the drift of Trump's executive orders, since he really IS starting to out the deep state and dismantle it—something I never thought he would do—I am not at all convinced he is doing it to make the world a better place for us all. The fact he is continuing to work with Big Tech, Bill Gates, and Big Pharma and attacking the people of Palestine, while having no plans to relocate or re-integrate all those displaced by his “revolution”, leaves me very uneasy. He says the Palestinians will go to “a beautiful place.” Other than heaven, what place is that, exactly? What beautiful place has agreed to take the 1.7 million he is talking about? And what beautiful place have he and Netanyahu selected for the rest of us to go to, those of us who won't be needed in the high tech future of machines and wealthy resorts? I think there was probably a positive plan for the wealthy purposely displaced in Maui and LA, but for the rest of us I am less optimistic.
